

Young Consultant of the Year

Chris Quinn, Chaucer Consulting

Chris epitomizes the 'well rounded consultant', highlighting how much stronger the consulting industry is by embracing consultants from non-traditional backgrounds with exceptional potential, and nurturing their talent and aspirations.

A high performing student who has become an equally impressive consultant, Chris' natural talents and his 'consultant's curiosity' quickly converted his internship to a permanent role. His consistent high performance and commitment to the business has since earned him three promotions, with a fourth expected by the end of the year. Clients cite his diligence, attention to detail and commitment to add value as his greatest assets. His ability to analyse, conceptualise and prioritise means he adapts quickly to new situations.

Chris consults to his clients with diplomacy, empathy and professionalism. During a highly sensitive time in his client's career, his involvement resulted in a stronger future for his client and team. Chris has tremendous drive for Continuous Improvement and has acted as an account Change Agent for Knowledge Management. He was singled out by our Director Technology Advisory to assist with the development of Chaucer's Digital service line. His involvement has changed the face of Chaucer Digital, and therefore Chaucer. Chris is the most regularly rewarded member of company; he receives spot bonus nominations from his colleagues and account managers almost monthly.

Largely this is for supporting others in his account, or for his contribution to broader company-growth initiatives. Chris has an exciting future ahead of him and we are proud to part of this journey.