Arup with CAA International

As an island nation, Brunei Darussalam's aviation industry is critical to the country's ability to be resilient, safe and secure.

Brunei's aviation regulator, the Department of Civil Aviation was seeking to improve the safety and security of the industry by enhancing its regulatory capability with the United Nations' International Civil Aviation Organisation standards. Civil Aviation Authority International led the safety aspects and engaged Arup to deliver the security scope.

But the regulator has bigger ambitions to be a 'World Class Regulator'. Arup's expertise and cultural appreciations is helping them meet this goal.
