Consulting Excellence Award for Professional Development

Arup

Arup's approach to professional development flows from the firm's distinct culture and ethos of quality, technical excellence and independence. All consultants are supported with structured development and through their professional accreditation. But qualifications are only the start of a lifetime journey of exploration. Shaping a better world means something to Arup people and this attracts not just the brightest and best, but also the most curious to ask, learn, explore and share. It promotes strong core capabilities for individuals but translates into a bigger picture of professional and personal growth benefiting Arup's clients. Arup harnesses these behaviours using Arup University.
