Digital & Technology Consultant of the Year

David Woodhead, DXC Technology

David Woodhead, Consultant and Digital Transformation Partner at DXC Technology, is renowned for designing, implementing and driving business value from innovative digital solutions. His combination of analytical thinking and creative nous has seen him lead from the front to create DXC Technology's innovative consulting methodology for digital transformation and clock an impressive number of successful client projects.

He has helped transform and modernise the core business systems of a major member services organisation to realise new efficiencies; facilitated new ways of working and client engagement processes for a large engineering company and delivered a new digital customer experience for a UK restaurant chain.
