

Young Consultant of the Year

Emily Brennan, Atos Consulting

Less than two-and-a-half years into her career, Emily has already exceeded all internal and client expectations.

Emily's technical aptitude coupled with her firm commitment to collaboration enables her rapidly to accelerate her teams to high performance.

With a masters in mathematics, Emily has embedded herself within Atos' Digital Transformation Analytics team. She advises clients by providing fresh insights from their data and then identifying new opportunities to make step changes in performance. Recently Emily has independently represented Atos, successfully growing her team and contributing to the development of new client opportunities. Emily has repeatedly been recognised by her clients and internally at Atos for her ability to step up to fulfil roles that that would usually be assigned to more senior consultants.

As well as providing specialist input, she has led stakeholder management and delivery. Her expertise as a Data Scientist combined with her strong interpersonal skills and ability to assimilate and draw on real world experience make Emily an unusually versatile and talented consultant.
